

Beneath the Moon

Beneath the moon, the river flows,
Like silver threads where silence grows.
Its whispers soft as twilight's song,
In gentle waves, it moves along.

Lion's Might

The ocean roars like a lion's might,
Its depths unknown, concealed from sight.
Yet clear as glass, a stream will glide,
A mirror of the earth's soft pride.

QUATRAIN

- A FOUR LINE POEM
- INCLUDES RHYMING

Water

Water,
Calm, fierce,
Flowing, racing, listening,
Clear like the sky,
Home.

Ocean

Ocean,
Deep, mighty,
Crashing, resting, fighting,
Roars like a lion,
Endless.

CINQUAIN

- A FIVE LINE POEM
- INCLUDES A SIMILE
- SHORT SENTENCES

Crystal Water

Crystal water flows,
Whispering through rocks and trees,
Calm beneath the sun.

Endless Waves

Endless waves collide,
Whispers of the ocean's depth,
Tides beneath the sky.

HAIKU

- TRADITIONAL JAPANESE POEM
 - FIRST LINE 5 = SYLLABLES
 - SECOND LINE = 7 SYLLABLES
 - THIRD LINE = 5 SYLLABLES

Clear Water

Clear water glistens,
Rippling in the morning light,
Soft as a whisper,
It dances over smooth stones,
A gentle kiss from the earth.

Water's Gentle Flow

Water's gentle flow,
Carving paths through earth and time,
Cool beneath the sun,
Like a song the river hums,
Echoing life's quiet peace.

TANKA

- TRADITIONAL JAPANESE POEM
- SYLLABLE PATTERN = 5,7,5,7,7